

MEDIA REPORT

MEDIA NAME WIRED(Magazine)

DATE December 2004

REPORT BY Brian Lam, Lucas Graves

TITLE LET'S GET THIS SHOW ON THE ROAD

PAGE OF 1 / 1

WIREDTOOLS video

AMA TECHNOLOGIES PORTABLE MEDIA PLAYER

Lest you think the striking similarity to Apple's iPod is an accident, AMA Technologies even calls this baby the DVX-POD. The gorgeous portable media player smacks down all the other PMPs on the market with its 7-inch LTPS (low-temperature polysilicon) screen, which lets you view your favorite movie files at DVD-quality 720 x 480 resolution. But this portable media player is more than just a pretty display. The 20-gig drive can play video, music, and images and even suck shows straight from TV or DVD with on-the-fly MPEG-4 encoding, and all without benefit of Microsoft's media-optimized operating system. [DVX-POD 7010: $599, www.amatechnologies.com]